RECORD NUMBER OF TRAVELLERS

The total number of international arrivals and departures to Australia reached a record high last year, according to recent Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) figures. There were 12.4 million overseas arrivals and 12.3 million departures in 2009, making a record of 24.7 million international movements across Australia's borders. This is an increase in overseas movements of nearly 60% and it is important that South Australia should enjoy its share of this lucrative market. Adelaide City is the 'gateway' to almost every SA tourist attraction which is why the City Council is working with Tourism SA to develop an effective strategy for tourism in the City.

Some interesting figures for South Australia include:

- In the 12 months to December 2009, 7.0% of international visitors to Australia spent time in SA, accounting for 4.1% of the total nights spent by international visitors in Australia.
- UK was the largest source of visitors for SA during 12 months to December 2009 accounting for 20% of our visitors and Europe in total accounted for 49% of our visitors.

Visitors from the USA accounted for 9% of S.A.'s overseas visitors so that with Canada's 4%, visitors from North America and Europe accounted for 62% of SA overseas visitor numbers.

- In the year ending December 2009, travel and tourism generated $4.6 billion of expenditure in S.A.
- In the 12 months ended Dec 2009, S.A. received around 5.1 million visitors and 25.5 million visitor nights.
- South Australians travelling in their own state accounted for around 34% of the nights, visitors from interstate 37% and international visitors 28% of nights.
- Latest figures for the 12 months ended December 2009 show South Australia attracted 360,600 international visitors and 7.2 million international visitor nights.

IS IT SUSTAINABLE? Much is being done to prepare ourselves for the end of oil as a primary fuel for motor cars but not much is heard about aviation fuel alternatives? The recent disruption to air travel has given us a glimpse of a world with severely reduced international travel – a variation of Peak Oil stared us in the face – and the tourism industry must have realised just how fragile their industry really is. Perhaps it is time we began building an industry based on Asian travel and a stronger domestic market.

WHAT MAKES A TOURIST ATTRACTION?

I read somewhere recently that the best tourist attractions are the ones that appeal to the locals! In other words, we should be making sure that we invest more in the permanent on-going attractions of our city/state rather than the ephemeral activities which seem to occupy so much of our time and resources. Obviously festivals and fairs make a major contribution but a dollar spent on permanent improvements to our Public Realm is undoubtedly worth more than the same dollar frittered away on a few days of fleeting festivity.

Think Paris and you think about The Eiffel Tower, London and it's Big Ben or the Eye, Sydney and it's the Opera House, New York and it may be Central Park, Canberra and it's the grandeur of Griffin's Plan.

Building a better Victoria Square or Riverbank or creating a more attractive Rundle Mall and the ribbon of the Park Lands will positively improve the experience of coming to Adelaide, day in and day out. Council should invest more resources in permanent improvements and less on sponsoring ephemeral events.

HOTEL OFFERS 'CYCLE FOR YOUR SUPPER' DEAL

The Crowne Plaza Copenhagen Towers, 15 minutes from the centre of the Danish capital and five minutes from Scandinavia's main airport, is installing two exercise bicycles hooked up to generators. Guests will be invited to jump on and start pedalling - and if they produce enough electricity they will be given a free meal.

From June, they will be able to race against the 366-room hotel's solar panel system in a bid to produce the most electricity. "Anyone producing 10 watt hours of electricity or more for the hotel will be given a locally produced complimentary meal encouraging guests to not only get fit but also reduce their carbon footprint and save electricity and money," the hotel said. The electric bikes will be up and running from April 19 and the plan is to test the idea for a year with a view to expanding it to more Crowne Plaza hotels in the InterContinental Hotels Group.
